

Galicia is Successfully Raided and Lemberg Will Soon be Also, Says an Official Report

DEFEAT, FLIGHT AND PEECEAL SLAUGHTER PREDICTED FOR THE GERMAN ARMY MENACING PARIS

Ally's Position at Oise Makes it Apparent that Teuton Advance Will be Made Increasingly Difficult—Defenders Playing for Time While the Enemy is Becoming Exhausted—Further Attempt is Made by Kaiser's Men to Draw Italy into War—Twelve Red Cross Ladies Have Been Killed and Others Stated to be Missing.

Petrograd (St. Petersburg), Sept. 2.—The general staff announces that the Austrian fifteenth division was completely routed near Lutschow, on August 28 and that 100 officers and 4,000 soldiers were taken prisoners.

The following official announcement was made public here today: "Our forces invading Galicia have continued their advance in the direction of Lemberg. The enemy fell back gradually before our troops. We captured some cannon, some rapid fire guns, and some caissons. The pursuit continues."

"Near Gurla and Lipa the enemy occupied a strong position of such natural strength that it was considered impregnable. They also desperately attempted to stop our advance by a flanking movement in the direction of Haluz. We repulsed the Austrians inflicting serious losses, captured a flag and 32 guns and a quantity of supplies and many prisoners including a general."

"On the south front in the Warsaw district all the Austrian attacks have been repulsed with success. Assuming the offensive on our right wing, we forced the Austrians to retreat, capturing three cannon, ten rapid fire guns and over 1,000 prisoners. According to statements made by the latter the Austrian losses were very heavy."

The official statement adds that the commander of the Austrian division, the commander of a brigade and the chief of staff of the division were killed. Of the 4,000 men made prisoners, 600 had been wounded.

The Russians also captured 20 guns and the flag of the sixty-fifth regiment.

London, Sept. 2.—(10:10 a.m.)—A curtain over the battle drama in northwestern France has momentarily been raised. It shows the allies battling desperately to prevent the success of the German assaults on the Upper Oise, less than 50 miles from Paris. On the eastern war stage Russia frankly confesses to a disaster to two army corps with the loss of three generals. Elsewhere the Russian army seemed to have triumphed.

Galicia has been successfully invaded and Lemberg will soon be evacuated according to reports from St. Petersburg war office.

If this is true, the Austrian menace to Russian Poland will be ended, and the Russian forces can begin to converge for the march on Berlin, the Russians' objective in north Galicia, apparently being Konigsberg, whence they can march on Berlin via Breslau. On the Upper Oise the British are fighting desperately to prevent the Germans from securing one of the most direct routes to Paris. News of this battle reaching here from two different sources is the first definite information since the end of the battle of Mons. The battle raged Sunday and Monday and by sheer weight of numbers the Germans secured a slight advantage.

Advances Increasingly Difficult—Military experts point out that from the present position on the upper Oise the German advance will become increasingly difficult, owing to the natural features of the country as well as the artificial defenses that will have to be encountered. It is becoming evident that all along the western line the allies are playing for time in the German assault will become exhausted.

In the diplomatic sense, Germany is making renewed efforts to draw Italy into her camp by a proclamation which states that a victory for England and France will deprive Italy of all chance of dominating the Mediterranean. The western coast of Belgium and the northwestern coast of France are apparently clear of Germans.

Antwerp has asked for an increased garrison. The town has also experienced a shudder because of another Zeppelin visit. The great dirigible was fired on and it departed without dropping any bombs.

German Bombers Malines—London, Sept. 2.—(8 a.m.)—A despatch from Antwerp to Reuters Telegram company conveys the following official announcement: "Germans are endeavoring to bring about the evacuation of Malines, aiming at the seizure of the cathedral, which is a prominent landmark for military movements of the German troops in the direction of Antwerp. The province of Brabant, six miles north of Brussels, gave rise to the belief that the Germans were contemplating a movement towards 'Tours'—16 miles east of Ghent. However, the Belgian troops have been informed on account of the necessity of preserving control of Wavendon. The enemy advanced from Brussels to Antwerp yesterday but could not penetrate further north.

"Nine and a half, 16 and 15 miles, respectively, from Ghent, in different directions, have been occupied by the Germans."

"In the province of Antwerp and Lieke the situation is unchanged."

Attempt Would Be Made—London, Sept. 2.—(4:30 a.m.)—The Paris correspondent of the Chronicle says:

"The possibility of a German raid is very slight. So far this may perhaps

SAYS ENGLISH NAVY MAY ADOPT TACTICS OF THE GERMAN FLEET

London, Sept. 2.—The "Times" naval correspondent, discussing the fact that the German fleet has so far declined the British challenge to a pitched battle by taking refuge in the expedient of laying mines in the North sea, suggests that it may be necessary for the admiralty, which has heretofore declined to condense to the German methods in this respect, to take retaliatory measures in the near future.

"We may either have to use mines for the purpose of preventing German ships laying vessels leaving German ports," said the correspondent, "or we may decide that crews of vessels used as mine layers should be given short shift as pirates. As far as necessary all traffic at night within certain areas is forbidden under penalty of vessels contravening these regulations being sunk on sight."

ward (emerged) and fighting is now going on between (blank) and the Meuse.

An official note of the fighting declared it as a kind of a stage warfare, as every position previously captured by the French in the Vosges region has been strengthened and organized by the French advance. This is necessarily slow.

Paris in reply to the message from the German aeroplane aviators says:

"What did you bring under your wing that we should surrender to you? You brought death—a bomb. That is all. That is why you will never have Paris. Paris is civilization. It is healthy. You are barbarian in its ugliness."

"The red cross ladies here have been officially informed that 12 of their number have been killed and that others are missing."

Long List Austrian Dead—London, Sept. 2.—(2:15 p.m.)—The Exchange Telegraph company publishes a despatch from its Rome correspondent transmitting the following statement issued at Vienna:

"Recognizing that the occupation of Lemberg by Russian troops is inevitable, the provincial government has removed the archives of state and given instructions to the burgomasters as to the conduct of the city after its occupation by the Russians."

The newspapers of Lemberg, he correspondent continues, publish long lists of Austrian dead, covering entire columns.

London, Sept. 2.—(3:25 p.m.)—A telegram received in an official capacity in London today from the chief of the Russian general staff declares that the Russian reverse in eastern Prussia is to be regarded as purely local and due to the sudden reinforcement of the Germans (probably at Gredstedt and Thorn) by the arrival of their siege guns.

Russian reinforcements also immediately arrived.

"More than one edition daily of my newspaper is made each day on preventive in the military situation and it is believed that the main French army and the British must still hold the line so far the German turning movement by western Belgium which cost enormous losses and which was successful, but now the position is very different. The best Prussian and Hanoverian troops have been exhausted and the Germans have now the main bodies of the allies to meet. With forts on which many brains have been expended, the German position is not so strong as it once was. What the same British force is fighting on the Somme to the south-west or another we do not know. Near Sedan the French troops had to effect a slow retreat, but it repelled another German attack and in doing inflicted heavy German losses. Fresh German reinforcements then appeared from Rocroi, a fortified town in the department of Ardennes, making to

STATES KRON PRINZ WILHELM CAPTURED BY BRITISH SHIPS

New York, Sept. 2.—Sir Courtney Bennett, British consul general in this city, announced this afternoon that he had been informed by a trustworthy friend that the north German prince, Kronprinz Wilhelm had been captured in nearby waters by the British fleet of cruisers, after being taken to Bermuda. His information had not been confirmed, he said, but he thought it true.

AMERICANS IN PARIS PROTEST AGAINST THE DROPPING OF BOMBS

Washington, D.C., Sept. 2.—Ambassador Herrick transmitted to the state department today the protest of a committee of Americans in Paris against the dropping of bombs by the German airships. The ambassador stated that the French war office has furnished evidence that the bombs were dropped by German as well as by French planes. He stated that the French war office has furnished evidence that the bombs were dropped by German as well as by French planes. SPIRIT OF KITCHENER PERVADES ALL MEN IN FRANCE, SAYS SCRIBE

London, Sept. 2.—(5 p.m.)—The Paris correspondent of the Times sends the following: "Today I pushed up as near the front as I could, and I was struck by the impression of the events of recent days."

"It must be borne in mind that although on the one hand the allied armies have been forced to withdraw, their lines so far remain intact. At no point has the enemy succeeded in driving a wedge through the circle which is drawing closer and closer around the capital and gaining in strength as it retreats. Amid all the welter of war the British troops produced the greatest quality of efficiency and the spirit of Kitchener apparently pervades the whole British expeditionary forces. The transport and other services are all excellent and they have withstood the slaughtering tactics of the German general staff wonderfully well."

CITY WILL REQUIRE $675,000 FOR RELIEF WORK IN FIVE MONTHS

The special committee appointed by the council at last night's meeting, to deal with the problem of the unemployed, met Wednesday morning with Commissioner Booth and Immigration Officer Clegg, to consider the matter of advising the dominion government of the best suggestions as to how to cope with this problem during the coming months.

Among those present were Mayor McNamara, Aldermen Calder, Douglas, Sheppard and Kinney; Commissioner Booth, Civil Relief Officer Turnbull, Bishop Gray, Secretary of the Trade and Labor Council Farnilo, A. T. Cushing and others.

After a lengthy discussion, the following message was drafted, to be forwarded by Mr. Clegg to the dominion government:

"City unemployed 3,600 as previously reported, 5,000 including dependents. At lowest calculation they will require in work or relief $675,000 for five months, in addition doing contemplated Saskatchewan river retaining wall Fund of $400,000 to be handled by strong loan commission and chiefly to be loaned on good security, to the city, farmers, etc. to create work, to reduce to a minimum charity donations. Many good suggestions have been received and can be sifted by committee, and details furnished. Submit immediate action, owing to lateness of season. Letter following."

MAINTOBA PRIEST BACK FROM LIEGE TELLS TALE OF HEROISM AND BARBARITY

Cyprus River, Man., Sept. 2.—Rev. Father Heyman, parish priest of St. Raphael, a Franco-Belgian settlement, 11 miles south of Cyprus, returned here, probably the first Canadian citizen to return to this country from the battlefield of Europe.

Speaking to a reporter today the priest gave some graphic details of his experience as an eye witness of the hostilities that bear out in every essential particular reports that have come from the front.

Rev. Father Heyman, who was at Liege during the whole of the time it was besieged and speaks fluently in French, Flemish, Dutch, German, English and some other languages, said in part:

"I left here April 18 to visit Maestricht on the border of Holland. Maestricht was in Holland, but I have many relatives living in Belgium, and it was while I was visiting some of them that I was taken to the front. On May 20, when I arrived at Maestricht which I did by way of England and Antwerp, there was no thought of war."

"On August 5, I went to Liege to visit my cousin and some other relatives and at 7:15 a.m., a carrier pigeon reached the city from a patrol party bearing the message:

"Germans crossing the Belgian frontier, time 7 o'clock." The city was at once all excitement, and every one was prepared at once to defend his country to the last. The total number of soldiers in Liege was never more than 10,000, but with their comparatively small numbers they never entertained any idea of allowing the Germans to march through their country."

"As soon as fighting started, I went out into the field as chaplain. For the first ten days there was no fighting, but after that the fighting grew closer and closer, the dead soon became big, but never in anything like the same proportion as the German losses."

"After the first day the German officers ordered all the red cross cars and priests, everyone who was not a combatant, to leave the city and to go to the side of the city and stay inside the walls of Liege, on punishment of arrest or death."

Perhaps They Were Right—"They were afraid that some of us might be tempted to report back to the defenders the plans of the attacking party and," said the priest, "perhaps they were right as two wounded officers and soldiers that were held talked very freely. In fact, the rank and file of the first party that was sent against us were from Als-Lorraine and they hated their work."

Some of them told me they had not fired a shot against the Belgians and would not do so. They told me as much as they knew of the German plans of attack and their objective, so that their Liege friends might not be taken unawares and wiped out. The reinforcements of which 4,000 arrived on Sunday, August 10, were mostly Irishmen, who were of a different type altogether. They were full of courage and their own friends appeared afraid of them. One officer who was being said to me to move several days from the top of him. Shattered limbs and aching wounds were dressed, water was given to the thirsty."

Not Anticipating any trouble with the food, the Germans came first with plenty of money, but the food they had orders to buy everything they needed in Belgium. Many of them adhered to this program after they got into Liege and made friends with the children and men."

The youngsters were given chocolate, were four soldiers and the men were asked to share their rations, the Germans in all cases taking things that they could use. The staff was not poisoned."

Shut Women and Children—"On the other hand, other Germans picked quarrels with the residents of the city and surrounding country, dragged women and children from their houses and stood them up against the walls and shot them dead, afterwards plundering and burning the houses."

What the Theater Press Agents Say

PLAYERS MAKE BOW THURSDAY EVENING.

In selecting "The Amazons" by A. W. Pinero for the opening play, the Players at the Empire theater, Theodore Johnston, the managing director, had in mind the words of Shakespeare, "the play's the thing." "The Amazons" was chosen first and foremost because it is one of the best of Arthur Pinero, England's well-known playwright. It is a whole and amusing farce, full of delicate wit and amusing situations. In fact it has been said it is only a play for the intellectual, but this is a mistake as the humor is such it can be enjoyed by all.

Then too, there is the first appearance of the ladies of the company to be considered, and in this play they are given a peculiar and fit setting for the displaying of their various talents. "The Amazons" has been called by a noted wit who witnessed it for the first time, "a comedy of maternal disapproval." It is open to question if disapproval would be the right name in this case, but there is no question about the comedy offered. The ladies have an opportunity of wearing a variety of habits, that range from masculine shooting and riding costumes to dainty evening gowns. The male members of the company will also be called upon to exercise their ingenuity not in the matter of clothing but in facial make-up and characterization.

The play reveals the interesting story of three ancient young swains ready in love, pursuing the object of their adoration who are not known to them by name and rank. Their efforts to gain entrance and introduction into the family of Miriam, Marchioness of Castlerose are the chief incidents of the act. In act two, they are successful in making a visit under difficulties of all sorts even including a realistic hold-up by a thieving poacher from whom they are ingloriously rescued by a friend to whom they give no credit, taking upon themselves all the credit for the discomfiture of the thesaural poacher. The third and last act is possibly the best of all, but it would be unfair to tell all that happens, suffice it to say that Mr. Johnston has chosen this play to introduce his company to Edmonton because "the play's the thing."

McNAMARA-WILLIAMS PAIR GOOD AS EVER—PANTAGES.

Pantages theater promised a good show this week and the offering is living up to all the predictions. The headliner for the week is Teddie McNamara and Quencie Williams and company in a brand new musical feature act, entitled "The Guide of Monte Carlo." Teddie McNamara and Quencie Williams are well remembered by the bit they scored at the local playhouse last season when they appeared with the Pollard Opera company in a condensed version of Gilbert and Sullivan's famous opera, "The Mikado." This time they have a splendid vehicle and are pleasing a host of Pantages patrons. "The Guide of Monte Carlo" is a bright, musical farce which in all respects is like a first class Broadway production. There is a plot, beautiful scenic effects, some pretty girls and good music. The singing of Miss Neille McNamara is just as excellent as her acting. The singing of Quencie Williams gives an splendid exhibition of her voice that has never been demonstrated on the local stage. Teddie McNamara is still the same funny comedian and he is delighting daily with his humorous antics.

The added attraction for the week is another treat. It is L. F. Klein, Jr.'s vivid spectacle "Titanic." This is a huge mechanical device which shows in faithful detail the sinking of the steamship on April 15, 1912. The act is divided into three parts. The first shows the harbor at Southampton and in this scene there is a great

ENGLISH NURSE GETS INSULTING TREATMENT AT HANDS OF GERMANS

London, Sept. 2.—(6:25 a.m.) Mrs. Stobart, who went to Brussels in the middle of August to establish a hospital under the auspices of the Red Cross, has returned to London after a thrilling experience. While trying to get from Brussels through the German lines she was arrested, with her party, of about 150 men and taken in a coal truck to Tounges where, she declares, she was submitted to insulting treatment as a suspected spy at the hands of German officers.

Mrs. Stobart and her party has spent the night in a guard room expecting to be shot in the morning. They were however, sent into Berlin.

They were deprived of all their documents and money by crowds of hunting German soldiers at Liege, Achen and other stopping places. They were finally liberated and rescued through Holland after encountering many difficulties.

England Takes Stand re the Purchase of German Ships by United States

Provided No Food or Contraband Articles be Sent to Enemy, No Objection Will be Raised—Would Like Assurance That They Be Not Returned After the War—Friendly Feeling and Thought Argument Will End Amicably.

London, Sept. 2.—(Discussion between London and Washington concerning the proposed American acquisition of German merchant ships is progressing. It is near an end, with the definite prospect of England finally taking this stand.

England holds that under international law the transfer of ships from the German to the American flag would not, under the circumstances, relieve them from capture by British warships. As such transfer would be illegal, but that, owing to the friendly feeling between the two countries and England's desire to assist the United States in its war effort, the British government would declare that the ships would not be used in carrying food or other contraband or semi-contraband materials or supplies where they would or could be shipped to England's enemies. England also would desire some sort of an assurance that the ships purchased would not be used to transport German troops or other personnel to the United States.

In a nutshell is the British attitude. Granting that her contentions are admitted by the state department, there would be no obstacle to the American acquisition of ships for use in the Atlantic and other trade. The discussion between the two governments is most amicable and there seems to be no reason on this side why there should be irritation of any sort. England's legal argument is based largely on article 24 of the declaration of London, of 1909, which both governments have approved and which says:

"That the transfer of an enemy's vessels to a neutral flag, effected after the outbreak of hostilities, is void, unless it is proved that such transfer is not made in order to evade the measures to which an enemy's vessels is exposed."

At the present juncture England has not the slightest desire to take any steps that would alienate in the slightest degree American goodwill, which is appreciated highly, but the view is taken that this is a matter of considerable consequence, meaning not only that Germany would obtain considerable money from the sale but also that if England failed to exercise what she held to be her right to prevent unrestricted commerce between American ports and German ports, or American ports and Dutch ports, through which food supplies could pass, her own interest would materially suffer, making it more difficult to combat the enemy and at least prolonging the conflict.

The foregoing is an unofficial but authoritative exposition of England's side of the case. It is expected that an agreement between the two governments shortly will be reached. Stress is laid on the fact that England does not ask America to deviate from a position of strict neutrality. It is simply contended that England is permitted to transfer the flag and that under the circumstances she is compelled to do so. That right, although as a matter of friendship she is willing to grant concessions which will permit America, if she so desires to increase her merchant marine and engage in sea-going business.

pointed commander of the troops in Turkey. The other two lost commanders, the Times correspondent goes on, were General Martos, commander of an army corps, and General Pestich, attached to the general staff. From Galicia, the only news is that a fierce battle is still raging. The situation in this eastern province is probably as follows:

A large Austrian army, with its base upon Gracov and Przemyśl thirty miles west of Lemberg, has occupied the south portion of the Russian Polish governments of Lublin and Kielce. It advanced in two independent columns to the north, one on either side of the river Vistula. Against the column advancing on Lublin marched the largest part of the third Russian army. The battle was not, some of Lublin and toward Tomashov, where the battle commenced more than a week ago and is still in progress.

At the same time the Russian fourth army crossed the eastern frontier of Galicia and after a series of minor encounters in which it was everywhere victorious, driving back the considerable Austrian forces massed there, it effected a general battle en masse about 20 miles east of Lemberg. After long sustained and heavy fighting at the present time the Russians captured several places where the Austrians had taken up positions fortified by field works. Of the continued Russian advance upon Lemberg there are no further reports.

In conclusion the correspondent says that the information given out at headquarters in St. Petersburg indicates that the Russian in spite of the Austrians' stubborn defence will bring victory home in this long sustained and terrible battle in which probably more than 1,000,000 men are engaged.

SENATOR OF HAINAULT STATES GERMANS KILL THEIR BADLY WOUNDED

London, Sept. 2.—(5:15 a.m.)—The Ostend correspondent of the Express quotes Leon Hainault, senator of Hainault, as testifying:

"That the Germans killed their own severely wounded in the battlefields and only attended those who would soon recover."

There are many signs, according to the correspondent, that the Germans suffered heavily at Mons. Returning remnants of those who were in the fight spoke of British courage. One of 250 British infantry must have counted for thousands of Germans. All along their line of retreat, they have prepared a defense made with bags full of potatoes found in a neighboring factory. Through these were placed Maxim and on top German helmets. The first time the Germans came up to this seemingly friendly defense, the Maxim spoke and soon no Germans were left.

Mons is reported to have suffered heavily and its whole neighborhood has been devastated. ZEPPELIN DROPS MORE BOMBS IN ANTWERP BUT LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

London, Sept. 2.—(1:35 p.m.)—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Antwerp says that a Zeppelin airship passing over that city this morning dropped several bombs. One struck the railway, doing no damage, but others seriously damaged ten houses.

Commencing Wednesday, the Gymnasium, at the Y. M. C. A., will be closed for one week for alterations. The Gymnasium classes will be resumed about September 15, for the winter, under the direction of G. R. Jackson.

E.C.D. Inspected, Clarified and Pasteurized Milk 12 Quarts for $1.00

Owing to conditions which make it necessary for many families to live as cheaply as possible, the price of E.C.D. milk has been reduced to 12 quarts for $1.00. This change does not apply to cream, buttermilk and products other than E.C.D. Pasteurized Milk.

This reduction has been made possible by the consent of the farmers to accept a lower price for their milk, thus sharing with us the resulting loss of revenue. The quality of E.C.D. milk will be just as zealously maintained as though the price remained the same.

The price of most foods has risen since the war. Milk not only remained unchanged but it has now been reduced. This in itself is good reason for using it freely. A still stronger reason for using it in large quantity is the fact that it takes the place of meat, which is highly expensive, and it is generally the most wholesome and economical food to be had.

E.C.D. milk is good milk and safe milk. Use it liberally.

Newport, R.I., Sept. 2.—Catching the champion in the doldrums and playing with sustained brilliancy, H. Norris Williams of Philadelphia and Horace, today snatched the chief lawn tennis honor of the country from Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco who had held it for two years. Williams victory was in straight sets, the scores being 6 to 3, 8 to 6 and 10 to 8. The result was one of the greatest in the history of the sport. That Williams might take a set from the 1913 champion was generally conceded by close followers of the game, but that he could make it three sets and the match was regarded as entire-

ANOTHER PAIR OF AMERICAN BOXERS DECIDE TO MAKE TRIP TO AUSTRALIA SOON

Another pair of American boxers have decided to make the trip to Australia, and try their skill against the new arrivals. The new wanderers will be Johnny Wright, the clever Akron, Ohio, light-weight, and Sam Surbarbar, the promoter of that city who takes a keen interest in the sport, and who has always managed his men, is hardly able to make the long trip; and Gus, who has met most of the top-weight, but has always been just a little out of the line, and is not yet a champion. However, Gus is a kid yet, being only 21 years of age, and he is not yet a champion, but he is the top of the ladder. Gus, who has been managed by Sam Surbarbar since he was 17, will be immediately take up with Sam on his return to this country. Christie thinks
